Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1,2,4-19,21,22 and 24-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hirt-2002/0010486 A1.

Hirt discloses a device for removing calculi having dual concentric probes. The outer probe is an ultrasonic probe driven by an ultrasonic horn and transducer. The inner probe is driven magnetically to reciprocate to impact the calculi. Both of the probes are hollow and allow for aspiration of calculi particles therethrough. See para. 12,13 and 15.

Claims 1,2,4,6,8-11,12,15 and 17-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Du, et al.-2004/0127925 A1.

Du discloses dual concentric probes; the outer probe is driven ultrasonically by a transducer and horn and the inner probe is driven by a mass accelerated by the vibrations produced by the ultrasonic probe. The probes are hollow for aspiration of calculi particles therethrough. The distal tip has a serrated edge; the diverging individual teeth portions constitute the claimed portion projecting in the side direction See abstract, and para. 4,7 and 11-13.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3 and 23 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The information disclosure statements(IDS) submitted on 07-10-2003 and 02-09-2004 are in compliance with the provisions of 37 CFR 1.97. Accordingly, the information disclosure statements are being considered by the examiner.
